Being an Educator: Your Educational Priorities vs. Your Delivery Strategy

Session 2

• The purpose of higher education in the US society.

Being an Educator - continued

What should each student learn?

Learning occurs when...

Teaching occurs when...

Using your list of what each student should learn, identify at least 6 items that you believe can be both taught and learned in a residential setting.

Can We Really Reach Each Student?

Examples of delivery strategies:

- One on one educational meetings with students!
- Educational floor meetings
- Sequential educational programs

One on Ones for Diversity Education

One-on-Ones were designed with the goal of providing students with an opportunity to explore their social identities and learn about social identities of others. After understanding themselves and learning about social identities of others, student explored what social identities of others they are most uncomfortable with. In the second semester, students will participate in the cultural plunge in order to explore and learn about social identity they are uncomfortable with. The goal is to provide students with the holistic experience of learning about themselves, others and to create an intentional learning experience through action learning.

One on One – sample questions

- 1. When were you first made aware of your race?
- 2. When did you discover your sexual identity?
- 3. Who taught you a lesson in regard to some sort of diversity awareness? What was that lesson?
- 4. When was a time when you confronted someone regarding an issue of diversity? What was the confrontation about? If haven't, why not?
- 5. When was a time you felt oppressed? Who was oppressing you? How did you feel?
- 6. Can you think of a time when someone was offended by what you said? How did that make you feel? How do you think it made them feel? How did his/her behavior change toward you.

Educational Floor Meetings

Floor meetings are the opportunity in which lesson plans can be facilitated to each community. Learning through floor meetings is very different from regular program/lesson plan at which students in attendance are from various floor communities. The connection, sense of pride, ownership and comfort that floor communities provide to each student are an advantage when facilitating mid-risk and high-risk activities. Student's strongest community (which for many freshmen is their floor community) often serves as a mirror to each student from which they observe themselves and others and through that process learn and change. All students are expected to be at their floor meetings. This ensures that lesson plans are delivered to each student.

Educational Floor Meetings

Sequential Educational Programs

- Lesson plans for each floor community
- Focused around topics of social justice that students struggle with the most
- Intentionally planned for the entire year

Assessing the Effectiveness of our Delivery Strategies

Mid year assessment report

- 87% response rate (623 out of 720 students responded).
- 63% of the students reported that one on ones with their RA's has promoted them to explore areas of diversity as it relate to themselves and/or others.
- 67% of the students reported that their RA was able to engage them in conversation that caused them to question their own views and believes they have about other people.
- 68% of the students reported that activities during their floor meetings helped them to gain understanding of the oppression that minority groups in our society face.
- 69% of the students reported that activities during their floor meetings helped them to gain understanding of stereotypes they have about other people.
- 70% of the students reported that their RA's possess questions that make them think about issues of privilege and oppression.
- 86% of the students reported that they feel that their RA is invested in their understanding of issues of diversity.
- 99% of the students reported that since the beginning of the year they have made an effort to educate themselves about social groups different from their own.

Effectiveness of our Delivery Strategy

Based on your time in Russell thus far, please rate your attitude about people from those social groups compared to your attitude when you arrived in August	Very open	Open	No Change	Less open
Sexual Orientation	39%	29%	30%	2%
Race	43%	27%	29%	1%
Gender	51%	17%	31%	1%
